SELECT PHYSICAL THERAPY BOLSTERS CLINIC WITH NEW THERAPIST AND SERVICE

Greenville, NC: Select Physical Therapy is pleased to announce that local physical therapist and certified hand therapist Karin Morrison has joined their outpatient team in the Greenville area. With the addition of Ms. Morrison, the center is able to further expand its clinical service offerings with hand therapy.

Ms. Morrison treats patients at Select Physical Therapy Greenville, located at 2340 Hemby Drive, Suite 200, and has over 20 years of experience. Ms. Morrison earned her physical therapy degree in 1992 from East Carolina University and achieved her credentials in 1998 as a certified hand therapist from the Hand Therapy Certification Commission, Inc.

Hand therapy focuses on rehabilitation of the hand and upper limbs, and is the merging of occupational therapy and physical therapy theory and practice. When the hand and upper extremity are unable to function properly due to accidents, disease, repetitive stress and congenital or acquired syndromes, a specialized approach is essential.

“We’re committed to having therapists of the highest quality as members of Select’s team, and Karin comes to us with significant experience in clinical management and specialized hand rehabilitation,” said Ray Collins, PT, market manager for Select Physical Therapy in Eastern North Carolina. “Karin’s association will not only help to further expand our services in the Eastern NC community, but more importantly benefit our patients in their treatment plans.”

Select Physical Therapy offers nine convenient locations throughout Eastern North Carolina. For more information, visit Select Physical Therapy’s Eastern North Carolina website.
